EXODUS: Creating the “Next Generation” of Trainers for Combating Antisemitism

From November 19-22 2025, the Center for Security Studies (KEMEA) in Athens hosted a “Train of Trainers Course” to establish a core team of anti-semitism crime trainers within the Hellenic Police. Through an experiential approach, experienced officers were equipped with essential tools to train their colleagues, focusing on the "3i" model (Identification-Intervention-Investigation), OSINT for digital investigations, victim-centered strategies, and adult education principles. Culminating in practical micro-teaching sessions, these new trainers are now prepared to act as regional and local "multipliers of knowledge" using EXODUS's specialized educational materials.

Joining Forces at the NoHate Police Event

In addition to our dedicated training initiatives, the EXODUS project recently participated in the NoHate Police Event. This gathering provided a vital platform for law enforcement professionals and experts to exchange best practices, discuss emerging challenges in hate crime investigations, and strengthen collaborative policing strategies to effectively tackle intolerance and discrimination.

EXODUS EU Project Blogpost is available: " Supporting Victims of Antisemitic Crimes A Trauma-Informed Framework from the EXODUS Project"

This blogpost explores why antisemitic incidents remain largely underreported and how this affects victims' safety, wellbeing and trust in authorities.

It highlights the psychological impact of hate crimes and presents the EXODUS EU Project approach to victim support based on human rights, dignity and empowerment. Special thanks to the VIASTOP Institute for the Prevention and Treatment of Violence and the Promotion of Gender Equality for their valuable contribution.

Discover how a trauma-informed response can strengthen protection, reporting and recovery.
